Indian River garden grows skills, helps those in need

A gardening program at Indian River Juvenile Correctional Facility helps to teach youth inmates skills as they work to turn their lives around, and local organizations benefit from the harvest.

Charles Danzy (right), a youth specialist at Indian River Juvenile Correctional Facility, works with juvenile inmates in the facility’s garden as they grow produce that is donated to local charities.

RELATED CONTENT
Indian River by the numbers
14 to 20 — Ages of youth who have committed felony offenses the center houses.
17.4 — Average age of inmates as of July 1.
9 — Number of inmates...

Christina McCune
IndeOnline.com staff writer
Posted Aug. 1, 2014 @ 7:00 am

MASSILLON
When one of the 19-year-olds at Indian River Juvenile Correctional Facility gets outside to work the soil, pick vegetables and tend to the garden that he can see growing just a few feet outside of a window of his mental health unit, he feels at peace.
Are inmate gardens a good idea?

- Yes
- No

Submit Vote or view results

- Teen gets prison time for Indian River assault
- Indian River inmates help teacher during assault
- A life in the ring aims to save a life from the streets
- Assaults drop, population shrinks in youth prisons
- Indian River leads state in assaults among prison youths
- Staff thwarts hanging attempt at Indian River

"It's something different, something to get my mind off of things," said the inmate, whom The Independent was asked by the youth prison not to identify. "We do it to help people in need."

He is quiet about his work, but seems to naturally have a green thumb since he learned about gardening as a child from his grandmother. The high school graduate plans to attend college and study computer science, and "I plan on having a garden when I get out," he said.

Indian River is one of three juvenile correctional facilities run by the Ohio Department of Youth Services. The Massillon facility houses 116 youth and the average stay is 10 months. The majority of the juveniles are students at the accredited high school, and many take vocational classes.

The gardening program, which is overseen by youth specialist Charles Danzy, is among numerous extracurricular activities that keep inmates busy, and teach them useful skills as they work to turn their lives around. This particular program benefits local residents in need because vegetables from the garden are donated to organizations including the Stark County Hunger Task Force, which received a bag of produce earlier this week.

An 18-year-old inmate who built a wooden entertainment center in woodworking class while he's been at the facility said he didn't have much experience gardening previously. He remembers visiting a garden as part of a fifth-grade school field trip, but he jumped right into gardening when he was presented with the opportunity.

"I can do this at home and start this for my mom, that's what I want to do," he said.

HELPING THE HUNGRY

The garden on the grounds of the facility at 2775 Indian River Road SW measures roughly 20-by-30 feet and has been worked by inmates the past three years. It has neat rows of corn, collard greens, tomatoes, squash, different kinds of peppers, zucchini, onions and okra.

This year, about a dozen inmates have worked on the garden and at least three have been particularly keen on taking care of the crops the past couple of months. They are able to get out to work on the garden two days a week — usually on the weekends.

Danzy has a passion for gardening and he said it's rewarding and educational for the youths to plant a small seed and weeks later pluck a ripe tomato off the vine, or a cob of corn off a stalk and donate the harvest to a local agency.

» Comment or view comments

» SUGGESTED STORIES

- Boy who nearly drowned at Baylor Beach Park remains in hospital Home - Massillon, OH - The Independent
- Crash closes Massillon Road between Wise and Greensburg Home - Massillon, OH - The Independent
- Canton residents among victims in $4.8 million tax fraud case Home - Massillon, OH - The Independent
- 5 arrested in prostitution bust at Belden Village area hotel Home - Massillon, OH - The Independent
- Missing concertgoer's body found at landfill Home - Massillon, OH - The Independent

» FROM AROUND THE WEB

- This Is What Venus Williams' House Looked Like When She Sold It To Ellen Page Lenny Magazine
- 3 Questions to Test Your Trust Inc.com
- 8 Famous Lesbians Who Were Married To Men MadameNoire
- Rachel Jeantel Blames Self for George Zimmerman Acquittal The Root
- 7 Success Shortcuts Everyone Should Know Inc.com

» TOP CLICKS

- Mother and daughter adjust to life after SUV's fall from overpass Jul. 26, 2014
- Multijourney sweep leads to numerous arrests in Canton Jul. 29, 2014
- Food 4 Less workers denied final paycheck Jul. 28, 2014
- Drug agents find guns, drugs in Massillon man's home Jul. 30, 2014
- Perry teacher past 'life-threatening stage' Jul. 28, 2014
- Todd Porter: Browns fans don't disappoint, even though team often does Jul. 26, 2014

INDEONLINE EVENTS

FRIDAY, AUGUST 1

- World Golf Championships Firestone Country Club 7:00 AM
- Butterfly Walks The Wilderness Center 11:00 AM
- Rep. Stephen Slesnick - Community Office Hours Stark County District Library Main Librar 11:30 AM
- Paper Marbling Workshop Massillon Museum 1:00 PM

NEXT EVENTS
Are inmate gardens a good idea?

☐ Yes
☐ No

Submit Vote or view results

- Teen gets prison time for Indian River assault
- Indian River inmates help teacher during assault
- A life in the ring aims to save a life from the streets
- Assaults drop, population shrinks in youth prisons
- Indian River leads state in assaults among prison youths
- Staff thwarts hanging attempt at Indian River

"You're weaving lessons in the activities they're interested in," said Superintendent James Darnell.

Some of the youths are impulsive and these activities teach patience and thinking ahead, he explained.

Unit Manager Gloria Robbins said she has seen a positive change in the behaviors of the youth who participate in the gardening program. To be allowed to participate in the garden and other programs is an incentive for maintaining good behavior, she said.

It's not only juvenile inmates who are encouraged to apply skills and give back to the community. The Stark County Jail had a gardening program last year, and produce also was donated to the Stark County Hunger Task Force. Because of the wet spring the garden was on hiatus this year, said Sheriff George T. Maier. He said he hopes they can have a garden again next year.

Reach Christina at 330-775-1133 or christina.mccune@indeonline.com.

On Twitter: @cmccuneINDE

>> TOP CLICKS

Mother and daughter adjust to life after SUV's fall from overpass Jul. 26, 2014

Multiagency sweep leads to numerous arrests in Canton Jul. 29, 2014

Food 4 Less workers denied final paycheck Jul. 28, 2014

Drug agents find guns, drugs in Massillon man's home Jul. 30, 2014

Perry teacher past 'life-threatening stage' Jul. 28, 2014

Todd Porter: Browns fans don't disappoint, even though team often does Jul. 26, 2014

>> Trending Articles and Offers

Have a $500k portfolio? Ken Fisher, a 30-year Forbes columnist, has a new retirement guide for you

New Rule in Ohio: If you pay for car insurance you better read this...

Stores struggle to keep amazing new sunscreen tanner in stock.

Columbus arrest records. Who do you know?

>> FROM AROUND THE WEB

This Is What Venus Williams' House Looked Like When She Sold It To Ellen Page Lenny Magazine

3 Questions to Test Your Trust Inc.com

8 Famous Lesbians Who Were Married To Men MadameNoire

Rachel Jeantel Blames Self for George Zimmerman Acquittal The Root

7 Success Shortcuts Everyone Should Know Inc.com

INDEONLINE EVENTS

FRIDAY, AUGUST 1

7:00 AM

World Golf Championships
Firestone Country Club

11:00 AM

Butterfly Walks
The Wilderness Center

11:30 AM

Rep. Stephen Slesnick - Community Office Hours
Stark County District Library Main Library

1:00 PM

Paper Marbling Workshop
Massillon Museum

NEXT EVENTS